CONTENTS

The considerable amount of money expended in travelling, postage, stationery, and printing, and the time and the care bestowed on the preparation of the manuscript, and on the revision of the proofs, will be a sufficient guarantee that the work has not been undertaken lightly, or carried through without a sense of its importance. The Editor has had at hand a fair share of leisure, and has spared no pains to make the work as full and as accurate as he could, consistently with the time at his disposal. He has, moreover, had the advantage of a long and intimate acquaintance with the Parishes, and of being on the spot, and in the main has taken a personal share in the work. He has, however, had to do it in spare hours, and has, in consequence, had to employ a trusted agent in the field, and to rely on the assistance of many others.

The Book is not to be sold at given many minutes of the Parishes named on the pages. Not of the Author, whether, Parishes, Burgh, Counties, Dioceses, Provinces, Kingdoms, Nations, Peoples, Tongues, Dialects, Sects, Denominations, Institutions, Societies, Clubs, Associations, Companies, Firms, Families, Individuals, Ministers, Elders, Members, Adherents, Friends, Enemies, Relations, Ancestors, Descendants, Kinsfolk, Neighbours, Acquaintances, Strangers, Foreigners, Natives, Residents, Visitors, Tourists, Pilgrims, Wanderers, Exiles, Emigrants, Immigrants, Colonists, Settlers, Pioneers, Aborigines, Natives, Aliens, Citizens, Subjects, Rulers, Governors, Officials, Magistrates, Judges, Lawyers, Doctors, Teachers, Students, Pupils, Scholars, Students, Pupils, Scholars, Students, Pupils, Scholars

COOPER CONVENTION

Jere Beasley, the scion of the family, was a Democrat, a state senator, and a lawyer who had made a fortune in the Alabama Black Belt. He was also the chairman of the committee of Democrats for Reagan-Bush, and he was a friend of the President's. Beasley was a tall, handsome man with a Roman nose and a pleasant, easy manner. He was in his 40's, married to his second wife, Ann, and the father of three children. He was a Baptist, and he was a member of the Masonic lodge.

FOUR GENERATIONS

Jere Beasley's father and Samford James had two uncles: [illegible]

Thomas Barnes (1845) was a school English teacher and Latinist who published a Latin grammar and a Latin dictionary, and, with Charles Lewis, edited a Latin version of Lewis and Short's Latin dictionary. Barnes died in Bromley, Kent, in 1905.

The annexed genealogy, reaching back fifty years, is said to be authentic, and was given to Thomas Barnes by his father, who, with his mother, had supplied it to Lewis and Short. Barnes, however, could not vouch for the accuracy of the first named three generations of the family, or of the relationship of Lewis and Short to the family.

desirous of receiving what compensation I may, especially so long as 1 have no strength to engage in any active and remunerative business. All who feel free to do so, I request at once to recommend the book to family friends, for their information and for their and my benefit.

The 12th of November next makes Oae Hunired j since the marriage of our gran ip irents, John ;md Elizabeth Worden. Were I burdened with wealth, I would before that day see a suitable monument eretei to them near Worden's Pond. I desire as complete and correct a record of their posterity (and those intermarrying) as I c in get, before Nov

See foot of pig- 21. I hive receive! about one hundred photographs of members of the Worden family, and many more are promised Please forward as requested.

I repeat my desire to heur, at least once a year, of every family's changes — and further information respecting them.
Inquiries I will cheerfully answer, as fur as t may ; but my correspondence embraces hundreds, and l cin not write as easily as formerly, I must be excused for brevity. Stamps for pre-paymeot would not. be refused. 0. N. W.
