*Now five generations get together every June
All because two people fell in love*

*There ain't nothin' not affected
When two hearts get connected
All that is, will be, or ever was
Every single choice we make
Every breath we get to take*

Is all because two people feel in love

The words above are from a popular Brad Paisley song “Two People Fell in Love.” It is a powerful song illustrating how a couple who met decades ago and fell in love, were responsible for so many other lives over subsequent generations. These are powerful stories that need to be told.

Inez See was born 92 years ago this past Monday, September 24th. Yep, you can do the math – that was back in 1920. She was one of 11 children who were raised in a one room home in Omega, Illinois. The See family were farmers, not unlike many families in Omega today, except today Omega enjoys cutting edge technology like running water and electricity.

Inez met Clifford Douthitt and they were married in 1939. Yep, you can do the math – that was almost 73 years ago. And they are still going strong. Clifford and Inez had three children, who gave birth to 8 grandchildren, who in turn gave birth to 19 great grandkids. All because two people fell in love. The grandkids, in the accompanying picture, range from ages 2 to 17.

And yes, Inez and Clifford have been to Wilton, to visit their granddaughter Jennifer Angerame, who is married to Brian and together have three children of their own, Michael, Katie and Patch, all because two people fell in love.

If you know a story that needs to be told, like that of Inez Douthitt, please email it to me, Jennifer Angerame jennifera@hamlethub.com, and I will make sure it gets told, right here on Hamlet Hub.

And by the way, happy birthday Grammy.
