EXPLANATIONS.

The families in this Memorial are arranged in the order of seniority, in the first five generations, the head of the family, having a consecutive number, being in German text, thus—V. 60. Elijah Burke, shows that Elijah Burke is of the fifth generation, and that 60 is his consecutive number, and that by turning back to the number 60, his name will be found in his father's family. The other head of the family is in old English, and is printed in the middle of a line.

This mark †, following a consecutive, and immediately before a person's name, denotes that the person will be subsequently noticed as a head of a family, his or her name being printed in German text, in the middle of the line, preceded by the consecutive number.

When a woman's name occurs thus, Thankful (Wait) Burke, it will be understood, that the name in parenthesis was her original or maiden name, and the name following was acquired by marriage.

When a woman's name occurs thus, Mary (—) Alvord, the horizontal line included in a parenthesis denotes that her original or maiden name is not known to the compiler.

Previous to the year 1752, there were two methods of reckoning time. According to one of these methods, the year began on the 25th of March, February being the twelfth month; this was called the civil or legal year. According to the other method, the year began on the 1st of January, December being the twelfth month; this was the historical year. Upon our ancient records these methods are often combined thus, January 8th, 1727-8. According as we now reckon time it would be 1728, but according to the first mode it would be 1727.

On page 139, 7th line from the top, Tinkham should be Tinker.

On 143d page, the consecutive number 145 should be 147.

On 144th page, 3d line from the top, the word died should be omitted.

On 161st page, Nos. 661, 662, Paschal should be Pascal.

MANY years since, my father, Benjamin Burke, Esq., began to collect and record some genealogical account of his ancestors and relatives. What he had thus collected was quite brief and imperfect, his opportunity for examining such records as would have assisted him being very limited.

Before his decease he placed in my hands what he had gathered, and was very desirous that I should complete what I well knew, from my earliest recollection, had been a favorite object with him.

Very fortunately I obtained the services of John A. Boutelle, Esq., of Woburn, Mass., by whose genealogical skill, assiduity, and untiring perseverance the following account of the Burke and Alvord families has been collected, and to whom all the credit is due for collecting the material for this book. No one, but those who have made the trial, can have a just conception of the labor and investigation required to prepare with tolerable accuracy a genealogical work of even so limited an extent as the present one.

The historical account of the De Burghs (or Burkes) has been prepared from authentic records, collected by Mr. Boutelle. Some readers may think it fanciful or far sought, while to others it may be interesting to learn the origin of a name that was unfrequent in New England forty or fifty years since, but is now quite common.

The genealogy of the Alvord family here given is not a complete one.

In looking up the genealogy of my mother I only purposed to make a brief record of her ancestors. It was owing to having followed another branch of the Alvord family that quite an amount of information was collected, that it was thought best to print for future reference by those who might be interested in it.

In the Appendix are genealogical accounts of minor importance, with sundry wills, deeds, &c., that it may be interesting to some persons to read. These were collected by Mr. Boutelle in the course of his researches in Probate Court and Church Records.

Upon the title-page to the Burke Genealogy will be seen the coat of arms of the De Burghs, with the motto—UNG ROY, UNG FOY, UNG LOY—that is, one king, one faith, one law—and on that of the Alvord Genealogy, the coat of arms of the Alvord family, as described in Sir Bernard Burke's "General Armory."

My thanks are due to all who have in any way assisted to furnish such information as has contributed to make up this book.

No doubt the persistence with which it has been sought has annoyed some who can see little or no use in collecting records of past generations. "Let the dead rest," perhaps they may think or say. But in almost every instance information has been cheerfully given, with a desire to possess the "book" as soon as it could be published.

There are some omissions (and no doubt many inaccuracies) in this book, and many of them might have been filled up (or corrected) by taking more time; but as more than a year and a half has now been occupied in collecting such facts as are here presented, I thought best to bring the work to an end.

INTRODUCTORY HISTORY OF THE NAME OF BURKE.

THE name of Burke, Bourke, or Bourcek, as it is variously spelt, was originally written De Burgh, and under that form is an ancient name, and of much note in the old world. It may be traced back to the eighth century, and has for its head Charles, Duke d'Ingheim, fifth son of the Emperor Charlemagne. In the fourth generation from him, we find Baldwin de Bourg, his great-grandson, a renowned crusader, whose son Baldwin founded the house of Blois in France, and was a progenitor of the noble families of Burgh and Vesey in Ireland.

Early in the fourteenth century, lived and died John, Earl of Comyn, and Baron of Tonsburgh in Normandy, a descendant of the above, "who, being general of the king's forces, and governor of his chief towns, obtained the surname of de Burgh," a name particularly pertinent, not only on account of its meaning, which signifies "pertaining to a city," but also because the name had belonged to one of the earliest progenitors of the family. Being, therefore, a prominent Norman family, it is not unnatural to suppose that they found their way to England when the connection between the two countries became so intimate, that the first Norman kings of England passed a great part of their time in what was to them their old home. Accordingly we find them mentioned in early English history from time to time, verifying their descent from the staunch old crusader by deeds of bravery, piety, and fidelity to their king. The celebrated Hubert de Burgh, afterwards King's Justiciary, was a marked instance of loyalty and integrity. His father and uncle had been in places of trust under Henry II., and in the latter part of the troublous reign of King John, when his Barons had confederated against him, and leagued with the King of France to put his son on the throne, Hubert was Governor of Dover Castle, which, with that of Windsor, held out against the French. Prince Louis tried to corrupt him, but always found in that brave man a loyalty proof against all temptation. Force had been equally unavailing, and the attempt had been more than once relinquished, when, the death of King John happening, Louis hoped the Governor would become more tractable. Accordingly, he again ordered him to surrender, representing to him that since he was released from his oath by the death of his King, he might without scruple swear fealty to a Prince, whom his countrymen had owned for sovereign, and who would be glad to show him marks of his esteem. Hubert replied that the esteem of a brave Prince could not be gained by baseness, and that his allegiance was due to the successor of the late King, whose cause he would maintain to the last drop of his blood. Louis then tried intimidation, and threatened to put to death his brother, Thomas de Burgh, who was a prisoner in his hands. Threats were also ineffectual in moving the faithful Governor, and Louis raised the siege, and shortly agreed upon a truce. This check upon the success of the French no doubt contributed greatly to the peace which followed, and to the establishment of the young King, Henry III., upon the throne.

Hubert was made Chief Justiciary of England, and rose speedily to such power and influence with the King as to excite the jealousy of the Barons. He was made Earl of Kent, and received in marriage the eldest sister of the King of Scotland; an honor which procured him the alliance of two monarchs, the King of Scotland having espoused the sister of Henry of England. Hubert, through the influence of the nobles, lost the King's favor, and was imprisoned in the Tower, but not long after was released, and was subsequently reconciled to the King, although he seems never again to have mingled in public affairs.

A son of his, John de Burgh, is mentioned with distinction in subsequent wars with the French.

In the reign of Henry II., a branch of the De Burghs went over into Ireland. Prior, in his "Life of Edmund Burke," says,

"The Burkes, or Bourkes, though now thickly strewn over the whole of Ireland, particularly the southern part of it, were not an aboriginal, or as their English invaders termed them, a mere Irish family; but descended from the Norman Burghs, or De Burghs, (of which Burke is merely a corruption,) who went thither as adventurers under Strongbow, in the reign of Henry II.; not as temporary marauders, whose visitations might soon be over, but to conquer an inheritance, to seize upon such possessions as their strength would permit, and permanently to hold what they had thus seized." The name figures in Irish history from this time down, until it is merged in other equally famous, and perhaps more familiar to modern ears. Even then it is retained as the family name. It is frequently involved in the wars and struggles which pervaded that riotous kingdom, and in most cases is found on the side of law and order, when law and order was the dangerous and unpopular side.

It was William Fitzalhelm, uncle of Hubert the Justiciary, who, accompanying Strongbow into Ireland, remained there with the little English colony, was appointed Governor of Wexford by the King, and afterwards entrusted with the management of affairs in that kingdom. In 1177, he was appointed Governor of Ireland, and about that time founded the monastery of St. Thomas, near Dublin. He obtained a great part of the province of Connaught, and died in England in 1204. His son, Richard de Burgh, Lord of Connaught and Trim, had the conquests of his father confirmed to him by King John in 1215, on condition of his doing homage therefor and paying the yearly rent of 300 marks. He was made Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1227, and died on a voyage to France in 1243.

His two sons, Walter and William, became incorporated into the two noble families of Ulster and Clanricarde. Walter, the elder of the two, by his marriage with Maud, daughter of the Earl of Ulster, became Earl of Ulster in her right, upon the death of her father. He died in 1271, and was succeeded by his son, Richard de Burgh. William, brother of Walter, and younger son of Richard, served with his father in France, and was in many battles with his brother, and died in 1270.

His son, William, was appointed Custos of Ireland, and performed many signal services with the Irish. He died in 1324. His son, Ulick de Burgh, was Lord of Clanricarde, and of great power. Then follow several Ulicks in direct succession, one of whom, living in the reign of Henry VIII., and being Governor of Connaught, the possession of his ancestors for so many centuries, was made by that king, Earl of Clanricarde and Baron of Dunkellin. He died in 1544. His son, Richard de Burgh, second Earl of Clanricarde, occupied the position so frequently conferred upon members of this family, that of Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. His son and heir, Ulick, third Earl of Clanricarde, dying in 1601, left five sons. Richard, the eldest, distinguished himself eminently in the service of the Crown, during the rebellion of O'Neil, Earl of Tyrone, and received many favors from his king, Charles I. He had the command of the county and town of Galway, where most of his estates lay. In 1624, he was advanced to the dignity of peer of England, by the title of Baron of Somerhill, (a manor of his in Kent,) and Viscount Tunbridge, to which were added, four years later, Viscount of Galway, and Earl of St. Albans. He died at Somerhill in 1635. His only son, Ulick, born in London, was a general of the king's army in Ireland, and zealous in opposing the Irish rebels. In reward of his loyalty, he was created Marquis of Clanricarde in 1644. He was made Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1650, but was finally driven from the country, his estates sequestered, and he retired to his manor in Kent, where he died in 1657. The line of succession then swerved into the family of his uncle, William, third of the five sons of Ulick, third Earl of Clanricarde, from whom, in direct line, the title has come to the present Earl, Ulick John, fourteenth Earl, born in 1802.

The Earls of Mayo are descended from a collateral branch of the De Burghs, having, with the Earls of Clanricarde, a common ancestor in the William, who was Custos of Ireland in 1308, and died in 1324.

This brief sketch of this ancient family will perhaps be interesting to those who, having the same name or one identical, are presumed to be connected by some one of those innumerable and constantly increasing lines, which, accumulating from generation to generation, are yet all traceable, were the materials at hand, to a common source. Many a genealogical tree, like the far-famed tree of India, seems to have many roots, because its branches have planted themselves in other spots, and been the source of life to other branches, but none the less did the life come originally from one root, none the less is it one tree. Throughout the genealogical records, the name Burgh is frequently spelt Bourke; and we find in the Life of the great statesman already alluded to, that the identity was acknowledged by the Earl of Clanricarde of the last century, who frequently addressed Mr. Burke as "cousin."

The early records of this country, owing to various causes, are not always to be found. Sometimes, no doubt, they were very imperfectly kept, sometimes they were destroyed in the wars with the Indians, and sometimes the very precautions taken to save them were the cause of their loss. The church records, which are very valuable sources of information, were often kept on detached pieces of paper, and were lost in passing from hand to hand. In one instance, (Greenland, N. H.,) the record of baptisms is found upon a roll of paper, two or three yards in length, consisting of narrow pieces, pasted together. The oldest burial-place of Sudbury, now in the town of Wayland, whose inscriptions have yielded valuable facts, has been deprived of a portion of its testimony by having some of its stones appropriated to private uses.

One supposition may have some weight in deciding the causes of the difficulty of tracing the connection of names this side the water with names on the other. Most of those who came to this country, had some strong reason for leaving their own. It is not unlikely that some, beginning as it were a new life here, may have made some slight alteration in their name, or have taken one already in their family though not strictly theirs. There seems no other way of accounting for the fact, that some names, traceable to an early period in this country, are not to be found at all in the other, either in records or even in present use.

But this cannot be said of the name of Burke, although the precise time of its transit to this country cannot be ascertained. The first possessor of the name to be found on this side, is Richard Burke, of Sudbury, of whom nothing is known previous to the date of his marriage in Sudbury, in 1670. Connecting his appearance here with the fact that, less than twenty years before, Ulick de Burgh, Earl of Clanricarde, was driven from his country, his estates sequestered, and his home thoroughly broken up, we are led to wonder, whether in the consequent dispersion of his retainers, one of his relatives did not find his way to this country, and seek to establish a new home in a new world. Or, supposing the passage to have been made earlier than 1650, might not a stray Protestant have been found in the Roman Catholic family of Clanricarde, to whom Ireland would prove an uncongenial if not an uncomfortable home? But the field of conjecture is limitless, and, once let loose in it, the fancy finds it very enticing. It were best then to draw back, and confine inquiry simply to the facts which have been collected, and which are presented to the reader in the following pages.

In Sudbury he resided on part of the estate which formerly belonged to his father, Richard Burke, situated in Sudbury, near Stow line, and bounded in part by land of his brothers, John, Jonas, and Thomas's division. He sold, March 23, 1721-2, his estate in Sudbury to Edward Fuller of Salem. In April following, he purchased an estate in Groton, of Samuel Farnsworth, for four hundred pounds, and subsequently moved to Groton, Mass.

He married

II. 7. Jonas Burke,

Born Sudbury, Mass., Jan. 4, 1683-4; died Stow, Mass. Son of Richard and Mary (Parmenter) Burke. He received the following division of land in his father's estate: land "butting on y<sup>e</sup> east with the land of his brother John burk on y<sup>e</sup> south with y<sup>e</sup> lands of Mr. Abraham Holman, westerly with the lands of Stow, northerly with y<sup>e</sup> lands of Lieut. Ruddock." "Of y<sup>e</sup> moveable estate," "by one cow, 2: 10: 00."

He resided in Sudbury and in Stow. As early as the year 1722, he sold land in Sudbury to his brother, John Burk. His inventory is on file, dated March 3, 1729-30. A letter, which is on file, dated Nov. 15, 1739, says, that the oldest son had sold his share and moved out of the province. Another statement is, that he has sold his interest, and is beyond the sea. A division and settlement of the estate was made April 10, 1741. Amos Brown, who purchased the estate of Jonas Burke, gave security for that which belonged to Mary, the eldest daughter.

Mr. Burke was married at Sudbury, Dec. 23, 1709, to

IV. 37. Capt. Jesse Burke,

Born Brookfield, Mass., April 8, 1738; died Westminster, Vt., Jan. 20, 1811. Son of Jonathan and Thankful (Wait) Burke, grandson of Richard and Abigail (Sawtell) Burke, and great-grandson of Richard and Mary (Parmenter) Burke. He resided in Westminster, Vt., of which town he was one of the first settlers.

June 21, 1771. Jonathan Burk, of Westminster, Co. of Cumberland, and Province of New York, conveys several parcels of land situated in Westminster, unto his beloved son, Jesse Burk, of said town.

Capt. Burke was a farmer by occupation, and a large land owner, being proprietor of a large part of the land comprised in the lower settlement or village of the East Parish in that town. He was a man of intelligence for those times, and of marked decision of character.

In the political agitations which preceded the outbreak of the American Revolution, he was a decided liberal, or whig, and of course allied himself to the Revolutionary party. The first military company in that vicinity of which there is any record, was raised in Westminster, of which company he was captain.

At that period of time, the King's Courts were held in Westminster, and for that reason that town was the centre and rallying point of the leaders of the party adhering to the king. And in that town the first blood was shed in the political collisions which took place in the county on the eve of the outbreak of the Revolution. William French, a citizen of Westminster, and a whig, was the first victim, and martyr of liberty. He was most barbarously murdered by a mob of tories, headed by the sheriff of the county. This event occurred in April, 1775. It was about this period that the military company was formed, of which Jesse Burke was captain. He had the confidence of the Committee of Public Safety, and Imbursements; and his name appears in the public archives as a recipient of orders from them. He was also the friend and confidant of the celebrated Ethan Allen, who made Captain Burke's house his head-quarters during the collision between the people of Vermont and the authorities of New York, prior to the independence and admittance of the State of Vermont into the Union as a State.

He was a man of morality and integrity, lived respected, and died lamented by his townsmen, and was buried in the ancient burial-place at Westminster.

“Erected in memory of Capt. Jesse Burk who died January 20, 1811 in the 73 year of his age.”

63. Jonathan, born —; married, May 26, 1811, Widow Laurana Butterfield, who had children by a former husband. He had an only child, a daughter. He was a soldier in the American Revolution, and was, for his patriotic services, a recipient of a pension from the first enactment of the pension law in the United States to the day of his death. After the close of the Revolution, he engaged as a seaman, in the mercantile service. Having made a voyage to England, he was there impressed into the naval service of that country, where he remained eight years, and was not allowed to go ashore, where it was suspected that there was any opportunity for him to escape; but he did desert in England. He was from home some sixteen years. During the time he was in the British naval service, he was in the fleet commanded by Lord Nelson. He was present and fought at the battle of Copenhagen. At his decease, the newspapers of the day announced the event, with the expressive addition, "a revolutionary soldier and an honest man."

Tradition says, that a family, or families, of the name of Burke, came up the Connecticut River in a boat, or boats, to Westminster, Vt., where some of them made a permanent settlement, and others soon moved farther up the Connecticut valley.

Jesse, Simeon, and Silas, remained at Westminster, but Jonathan, Sen., Jonathan, Jr., Isaiah and Solomon Burke, moved farther up the Connecticut river.

Solomon Burke settled, May, 1771, in Windsor, Vt. The first permanent settlement of Windsor, Vt., was made by Capt. Steele Smith, in August, 1764. “Capt. Smith came up the Connecticut from Farmington, Conn., about 1763, with two others, in a canoe; and being remarkably agile, he sprang ashore to cut the first tree, leaving his companions some distance behind. In August, 1764, he came with his family. There was then no road north of Number Four (Charlestown, N. H.) The next season, Maj. Elisha Hawley, Capt. Israel Curtis, Dea. Hezekiah Thomson, and Mr. Thomas Cooper, with some others, came and began improvement. A man by the name of Solomon Emmons had however previously built a hut, and was living here when Capt. Smith arrived; but he had not purchased the land, nor made any improvements with a view to a permanent settlement. Mrs. Emmons, his wife, was the first, and for some time, the only, white woman in town."

Windsor, Vt., "was chartered by authority of the Province of New Hampshire to Samuel Ashley and 58 others, July 6, 1761, containing 23,500 acres. It was re-granted by Gov. Tryon of the Province of New York, March 28, 1772, to Col. Nathan Stone and 28 others. Thomas Cooper was the first Town Clerk.

The first male child born in town was Mr. Samuel Smith, son of Capt. Steel Smith. He was born July 2, 1765, and died in Windsor, Jan. 6, 1842, aged 77 years. The first female child born in Windsor was Mrs. Mary Wait, relict of the late Capt. Marshal Wait, and daughter of Col. Nathan Stone. She was born April 26th, 1767, and was living in 1855." [Church Manual, Windsor, Vt.

Rev. James Wellman was installed Sept. 29, 1768, and preached in Cornish, N. H., and in Windsor. By written agreement he was to preach in Windsor one-third part of the Lord's day, for five years, for which he was to receive, annually, twenty pounds good and lawful money of New York, &c. April 3d, 1774, the church of Cornish and Windsor, voted to comply with the request of those who desired a dismission with a view to join with others in forming a church in Windsor.

"Mr. Wellman used to ford the Connecticut on horseback in coming to Windsor to preach," and "sometimes he was obliged to enter the pulpit little short of dripping wet."

Mr. Solomon Burke was a member of the first Congregational church at Windsor, and was often appointed on committees of the church. In 1793, Mr. Solomon Burke, with Mr. Reuben Smith, were chosen a committee to call upon those who absented themselves from the church at Windsor. His land was bounded on the Great River, on the town line between Windsor and Hertford, also on the land of his brother, Isaiah Burke. He owned land in Hertford (now in the town of Hartland).

Dec. 30, 1803, Solomon Burke of Windsor, conveys land in Windsor and in Hartland to Jonathan Burke of Windsor.

April 25, 1804. An indenture was made between Jonathan Burke and Solomon Burke, that Jonathan Burke in consideration of two thousand dollars already received of Solomon Burke, doth lease unto said Solomon the whole of the land which he has this day deeded to him, the said Jonathan, situated in Windsor and in Hartland, with such part of the buildings as are necessary for the use of the said Solomon and Keziah, his wife, to make them comfortable during their natural lives. He is to deliver annually to them during their lives one-third part of all the productions of said farm in a state fit for market; likewise one-third part of the pasturing is to be theirs. The said Jonathan is to take care and tend one horse and two cows, summer and winter, for them, provided the said Solomon provides the said horse and cows for him to tend, &c., &c. Moses Burke, son of said Solomon, is to live and work on said farm until he arrives at the age of 21 years; said Jonathan is to furnish him with decent victuals, drink, and clothing, and to support him in sickness and in health. When said Moses shall come of age, said Jonathan is to pay him $200. Jonathan Burke is to support and maintain a negro woman by the name of Flora Brackey, who now lives with the said Solomon. (See Appendix B.)

March 30, 1812. Jonathan Burke deeded back the farm, &c., to Solomon Burke, and the same day Solomon Burke conveys the same premises to Nahum and Moses Burke, in consideration of like maintenance.

404. Edmund, born Westminster, Jan. 23, 1809. "He was educated in the common schools of the village in which he was born, and resided, until the age of thirteen years, when he received from private tutors sufficient instruction in the classics to qualify him for the study of law, for which profession he was designed by his parents. At the age of sixteen years he was entered as a student at law, in the office of Hon. William C. Bradley of Westminster, Vt., at that time the most eminent of his profession in that State, and a man of great ability, eloquence, and literary as well as legal attainments.

He remained in the office of Mr. Bradley as a student, nearly five years, when he was admitted to the Bar of Windham County, on the September term of the Court in 1829; and, in the winter following, he was admitted to the Bar in Cheshire Co., N. H. In the spring of 1830 he removed to the northern part of New Hampshire, and first commenced the practice of law in the town of Colebrook, Coos Co. Subsequently, during the same year, he removed to Whitefield, in the same county; where he continued in the practice of his profession until the autumn of 1833, when he removed to Claremont, Sullivan Co., in the same State. There, in connection with his profession, he assumed the editorial control of the New Hampshire Argus, a democratic newspaper, then published in that place, of which he also was part proprietor. He continued to reside in Claremont until Oct. 1834, when he removed to Newport, the shire town of the same county, and there established himself in his profession, at the same time continuing his connection with the Argus, which was removed to Newport. He continued his editorial connection with the Argus, (afterwards united with the New Hampshire Spectator, and published under the title of the New Hampshire Argus and Spectator), until the spring of 1839, when he was elected by the Democratic party a member of the House of Representatives in the Congress of the United States. He filled the office six years, having been re-elected to the same office; his last election being contrary to the customary practice of his party, which was to give to their representatives, ordinarily, two elections only.

On the accession of Mr. Polk to the Presidency of the United States, he was tendered by the President the office of Commissioner of Patents. He held the office during the Presidency of Mr. Polk, a period of four years.

He then became joint editor with the celebrated Thomas Ritchie of the Washington Union, then the central organ of the National Democratic Party. He continued editor of the Union for one year, when he retired from that journal and returned to Newport, N. H., his former residence, where he resumed and still continues the practice of his profession. He has, since his return to New Hampshire, engaged actively in political affairs; and has written, at all times, much for the political press, having since his return been the editor of the "Old Guard," and the Democratic Standard, both democratic papers, and both published in Concord, N. H. He was editor of the Standard at the time of its destruction by the mob, in the summer of 1861.

In addition to his editorial labors, he delivered several speeches in Congress, namely, upon the Sub-Treasury, in the first term of the XXVIth Congress; in defence of New Hampshire against the assaults of Hon. Thomas D. Arnold of Kentucky, in the first session of the XXVIIth Congress, and on the Tariff, during the same session. He was a member of several important committees, and among others, chairman of the Select Committee to investigate the facts concerning the Suffrage movement in Rhode Island, and in that capacity made a long and elaborate report.

He was also the author of the "Bundelcome Essays" upon the tariff policy of the country, taking the free-trade view of that subject. These Essays were written while Mr. Burke was Commissioner of Patents, and originally published in the Washington Union. An edition of the same work was subsequently published at Washington, of which about 20,000 copies were taken and circulated by members of Congress, and other persons. It was in whole, or in part, re-published in nearly every democratic newspaper in the United States.

Mr. Burke has also delivered several elaborate political addresses, prepared Congressional documents, and also delivered addresses on agriculture and other topics, besides diligently laboring in his profession.

So far his life has been one of activity and industry. Mr. Burke was married, Dec. 1, 1840, to Ann Matson, who was born Stoddard, N. H., June 20, 1823, and died Newport, N. H., Jan. 28, 1857, aged 33 years, 7 months, 5 days. She was the only daughter and child of Francis and Susan (Gilson) Matson, who was the only son and child of the Hon. Aaron and Frances (Carpenter) Matson, formerly a member of Congress from New Hampshire. He moved from Connecticut to Stoddard, N. H. Frances Carpenter, wife of Aaron Matson, was a resident of Charlestown, N. H. The tradition of the family is, that she was a direct lineal descendant of Peregrine White, who was born in the Mayflower, on its passage with the Pilgrims from England.

Mr. Burke's daughter has now preserved for her, as an heir loom, a copper tea-kettle, which is said to have been brought over in the Mayflower, by the family of Whites, was then the property of Peregrine, and from him has been handed down in the direct line of descent to Miss Burke, who is the only lineal descendant of the Matson family, through the Aaron Matson branch.

THE BURKE FAMILY OF BERNARDSTON.

I. 1. Richard Burke,

Of Northampton, Mass.

We do not know when he came to Northampton. On Northampton Proprietors' Book, in the year 1700, page 162, on a list of men's estates, according to which the commons were divided, we find the name of Richard Burk. We find no grant to him, but he had property, and accordingly had six rods in length and eight rods in breadth, as his division. These divisions were according to each man's lot. As we find no grant to him, perhaps he received the above division in right of his wife's thirds, &c., (which she received as widow of Nehemiah Allen).

From the Hampshire County Records, (Clerk of Courts,) page 121.—"Whereas in the distribution of Nehemiah Alline, deceased, his estate, there was a distribution to the children, one of wh<sup>h</sup> is since dead viz. Silence Allyne, who being young w<sup>n</sup> she died, and Richard Birkes, who married the widow, requires pay for her keeping wth her one yeer & halfe, & soe likewise his wife for keeping her, one yeer & halfe or thereabouts."

"This Courte Judge meete to allow them twelve pound a piece, in County pay, the sd Birke's having engaged to leave the dispose of this estate to be disposed by his wife, for the good of her children. March 1690."

"Richard Birk's appearing in this Corte and shewing his dissatisfaction in<sup>t</sup> w<sup>t</sup> as at the Co<sup>r</sup>te in march Last, the Court allowed him and his wife Twelve pound a peice out of the estate, or portion, belonging to Silence Allyne, deceased, for bringing her up, & it being put all to her dispose of his wife (be?) pleaded Right to the Twelve pounds w<sup>ch</sup> was expended in his time, to be at his disposal w<sup>ch</sup> this cor<sup>te</sup> Granted, & the distribution, and further settlem<sup>t</sup> of those conveyance as follows.

An account of the distribution of the estate of Nehemiah Allyne:

The Honoured Corte ordered that the Eldest son Sam Allyne should have an hundred pound, & the 2nd son fifty pound, & the four daughters, forty pound a piece, and the remainder of the estate was given to the widow, she quitting the third of the land &c.

Accordingly, I, being Stated, Administrator to said estate, have ordered as to the paym<sup>ts</sup> of the 4 children their portions as followeth, only It is to be noted that the youngest child being since dead, the honoured Court have allowed to y<sup>e</sup> sd widow, and her now husband, twenty four pound, out of that Child's portion, and the remainder of her portion, to be equally divided amongst the surviving children.

And accordingly, I have ordered that as to the Eldest son Son Samuel, his portion, being an hundred pounds, and his share out of the child's portion w<sup>ch</sup> is dead being three pound four shillings, & also y<sup>t</sup> being due to him for money paid towards the finishing the house, y<sup>e</sup> sum of three pounds fifteen shillings, so that the whole due, is one hundred six pounds nineteen shillings.

And Nehemiah indebted three pound, & the honored Corte, having granted him, about twelve pounds as compensation for bringing up the youngest child while it lived the whole w<sup>r</sup> of being twenty four pounds ten shillings, that so much land be made over to him as his own proper estate giving the sons seven years to Redeem it."

Thomas James, or of Rev Thomas Weld, though each was then on board, to elude the malignant feebleness of Archbishop Laud." Mr. Woodford came to Roxbury, Mass. He removed early to Hartford, and about 1656 to Northampton. Sarah married Nehemiah Allen, Sept. 4, 1664, when she was two days more than 15 years old. ## THE ALVORD MEMORIAL.

WE find upon our public records that the above name (even the descendants of Alexander and Benedict), has been variously written, even for the same person. We find it written Aliuard, Alluerd, Alvord, Alford, Alvord, Allord, Alved, Alfort, Allford, &c.

In this work, we intend to give a brief genealogy of some of the descendants of Alexander Alvord, who moved from Windsor, Conn., about the year 1661, and settled in Northampton, Mass.; and we shall likewise give a very brief genealogy of some of the descendants of Benedict, who remained at Windsor, Conn.

There were others of this name, who early settled in New England, besides Alexander and Benedict Alvord, whom, we suppose, might originally have been of the same family.

There was a William Alford, who came from London, about the year 1634, and settled in Salem, Mass., who was a member of Skinner's company. His wife Mary joined the church in 1636, and had Nathaniel, baptized 19 March, 1637; Samuel, 17 Feb. 1639; Bethia, 26 June, 1642; he had also Elisha, Mary, and Elizabeth. Savage says: "He had favored the party of Wheelwright, and under the name of Mr. Alfoot on the record in 1637, was disarmed by the General Court, and thereupon removed for a season to New Haven, and there had, probably, two or more of his children born before 1654. He came back to Massachusetts, but settled in Boston, was a merchant, and by another wife, Ann, had John, born 29 Nov. 1658, who died aged two months. He died Jan. 1677. His will was dated 13 April, with a codicil, 9 July, 1676.

We find upon the early records of the county of Essex, that there was an Abraham Alved.

"Gent men & honest freinds pray be pleased to paye vnto my frend Edward Joanes the severall sums of Suger which you owe me which each Gentleman's sune is heare vnder neath mentioned & directed to you & every of you severally for ye each p ticular sum or sums, taking the said Joanes his receipt for any sune you for my acct: & in for soe doeing you will oblige him

John ffoott of Bristol merchant now in London late resident in Boston N. E. constitutes Benjamin Alford of Boston aforesaid Merchant his true and lawfull Attorney. May 10. 1675.

Recorded Vol. 4 : 120.

There are two documents upon Court files where Benj. Alford, Oct. 31, 1676, as an attorney of John Sweeting of London, gave his deposition with regard to the payment of a bill to John Shephard, master of the Thomas and Mary.

Benjamin Alford was a merchant of Boston, and was a member of the artillery company in 1671. Savage says that he was probably son of William. He married Mary, daughter of James Richards, Esq., of Hartford, and had Mary, born 15 Sept., bapt. 14 Oct. 1683; John, bapt. (at third or O. S. church) 5 July, 1685; Benjamin, born 5, bapt. 10 Oct. 1686; Judith, bapt. 16 Sept. 1688; James, born 19, bapt. 26 July, 1691; Sarah, born 17, bapt. 18 March, 1694; and Thomas, whose date is not found. "He had been a prisoner in Barbary and after his return was a man of importance in Boston. His will of Feb. 19, 1697, (probate thirteen years after,) provides for his children and widow. His widow, with his brother-in-law Benj. Davis, he makes Excors. His eldest son, Hon. Col. John, of Charlestown, was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1714; was one of the King's Councillors, and was distinguished as founder of the Alford Prof. of Nat. Theology, &c., at Harvard, and for giving a large sum to the Society for Propagating the Gospel among the Indians, &c., in North America. Hon. John Alford married Margaret, daughter of Col. Thomas Savage, merchant of Boston, 12 Nov. 1713, and died in Charlestown, Sept. 1761, aged 76, highly respected for his moral worth, and left no children.

There was a Henry Alvord, or Alford, very early in New England, according to Plymouth Colony Records.

April 20, 1679, John Alford of Salem, seaman, conveys his now dwelling-house in Salem to Edmond Batter of Salem, merchant. He was in Salem in 1668. Col. Remain Alford of New London died Aug. 12, 1709, aged 63.

Historians seem to agree that Alexander and Benedict, of Windsor, Conn., were brothers, and that Alexander's sister, Joan Alvord, married May 26, 1646, Ambrose Fowler.

Many of the names of the original members of the First Church who went with their pastor, Rev. John Warham, as a body, from Dorchester, Mass., to Windsor, Conn., in 1635, are obliterated, and we do not know whether Alexander and Benedict are of that number.

We suppose, from what records we are in possession of, that Alexander and Benedict Alvord emigrated from the county of Somerset, England, and that Benedict after coming over and patriotically volunteering to assist in defending the Connecticut colony from the Pequots, returned to England after his espoused, Joan Newton (Nurton). For, in 1637, "Brave Sergeant Alvord was one of the thirty who went from Windsor, Conn., to make an offensive war against the Pequots," [See Benedict Alvord,] and the 20th of Feb. 1639, he must have been in Broadway, county of Somerset, England; the 25th of August, 1640, he had returned to Massachusetts, and Nov. 26, 1640, he was married in Windsor to Joan Newton.

"The third of September 1640. The Record of the Deede shewed in Court betwixt Richard Standerwick & Nicholas Nurton."

I. 1. Alexander Alvord,

Born Somerset County, (?) England, probably about 1620; died Northampton, Mass., Oct. 3, 1683.

He was an early resident of Windsor, Conn., and moved to Northampton, Mass., about the year 1661, where he died. Some of the names on the earliest records of Windsor, Conn., being obliterated, we cannot tell whether he was among the very first or not. Still later we find the following upon the church records: Aug. 17, 1639. "Mr. Ephraim Hewett & Di-verse others came up from the Bay to settle here."

From what records we have examined we suppose that he came from the county of Somerset, England, to this country. We find by the early records of deeds that he was an early proprietor in Windsor, Conn.

"Alexander Alford [Alvord] hath granted by virtue of purchase his home Lott six acres more or Less, y<sup>e</sup> bredth is Eighteen rods, bound west and norwest by John Warham & is there in length fifty Two rod, bounds East South East by Thomas Barber, and is there in length Sixty six rod, and North, North East bounded by John Helier."

"Also six acres of Swamp on the Mill Brook in length by y<sup>e</sup> bank (threscoore) : [blotted] rods, in bredth at the South—twelve rods in y<sup>e</sup> midst twenty rod, bounds south by John Drake."

"Also by Gift from his Father Richard Voar, in the woods forty Two acres, in length six scoore rod, in bredth fifty seven rod—Bounded South by Jonathan Gillet North by Thomas Bascomb." (No date.)

The question may be asked, Where did Alexander Alvord reside?

"The road to Poquonnoc above the old mill at just about the place where the present road from the bridge near the 1st Congregational Meeting house comes in, was anciently intersected at right angles by a highway running about South West from the Rivulet. On this highway we find the residence of Alexander Alvord," who sold to Josiah Ellsworth in 1654, and he sold to Cornelius Gillett in 1658. "This is the present Oliver S. Gillett place." Some of his neighbors, were Thomas Barber, Humphrey Hyde, Jonathan Gillett, Nathan Gillett.

"Alexander Alford of Windsor unto Humphrey Hide." "Know all men by these presents that I Alexander Alford of Windsor in Conn. have sold and upon good Considerations to me Secured, do Allienate &c. unto Humphrey Hide of Windsor aforesaid, one parcell of land, Containing four acres more or Less being in bredth sixteen rod more or Less as it lyes Bounded East by the Land of Nathan Gillett, North by a highway, South by the mill brook," &c. Signed May 27, 1645.

Witness, Bray Rosseter, Daniel Clark.

April 13, 1680, An agreement was made between Thomas Lyman, John Bridgman and Alexander Alvord for the maintaining the Common fence at the rear of their home lots. [See Northampton town records.

In 1682 Alexander Alvord had the largest number of rods of fence to be built except John Stebbins: "A List of each man's Proportion of fence which they now possess & own according as it was measured in 1679."

For Alexander Alvord's will, see Appendix E.

He was married, according to Windsor, Conn., Church Records, Oct. 29, 1646, to of Windsor, Conn. Mr. Vore came to Dorchester, Mass., perhaps in 1630, with Rev. John Warham, where he was a member in full communion with Mr. Warham's church, and in 1635 accompanied him with the body of his church to Windsor, Conn.

He resided in Windsor, Conn, south of the rivulet, or little river in the vicinity of the mill; between that and the foot of Stony Hill, and in his immediate neighborhood, were located Rev. John Warham, &c., &c.

"He also owned meadow land between the Rivulet and Mill Brook, where the latter empties into the former, called upon the records Vore's Point." Rev. Mr. Warham requested the privilege to build a little house upon his land for Mary Jones, "Whereas Richard Vore upon Mr. John Warham's request, formerly gave him liberty to build a little house upon his land joining the north end of his [Vore's] then and now dwelling house for the use of his kinswoman Mary Jones to dwell in during her life, and at her death to give it to the said Richard; and the said Mary Jones being now deceased; this is to testify that I John Warham do hereby alienate assign and set over the said house I builded as aforesaid to Richard Vore of Windsor in the County of Hartford Conn. &c., &c., Dated Dec. 15, 1666."

Mrs. Mary (Vore) Alvord had sisters, viz.: Lydia, who married Nathaniel Cook, June 29, 1649; Sarah, who married Benjamin Parsons, Oct. 6, 1653; and Abigail, who married Timothy Buckland, March 27, 1662. The father died Nov. 22, 1683, and the mother, "Ann," "relict of Richard Vore died in Windsor, Dec. 7, 1683."

She was the daughter of Sampson and Mary (——) Frary, who resided in Hadley, on the west side of the river, which afterwards became Hatfield, and moved to Deerfield, where he was killed, Feb. 29, 1704, by the French and Indians, who took his wife Mary captive, and killed her before they reached Canada.

For his will and codicil, see Appendix F.

Mr. Alvord resided in Northampton, on the estate he bought of Joseph Clesson, situated on the road to Hadley, about one-half mile from the bridge across the Connecticut river.

Abstract of a deed now in possession of a descendant:

"Joseph Clesson lately of Northampton now of Deerfield, husbandman in consideration of the sum of two hundred and sixty five pounds paid by Joseph Alvord March 26, 1730, conveys a certain homelot in the town of Hampton wt a dwelling house and barn standing thereon which home lot is bound as follows, viz: upon the highway northerly and upon Ebenezer Wright's Jun. lot, or the heirs of Judah Wright deceased lot; southerly upon the highway eastwardly and on the land of Moses Lyman and Gideon Lyman Westwardly, which lot contains five acres and a half or there about be it more or less.

JOSEPH CLESSON."

On the above lot Joseph Alvord lived and died; here all his children were born; here resided his son, Medad Alvord, also his granddaughter, Eunice Alvord, who married Luther Hunt. Mr. Joseph Alvord here carried on the business of a weaver, and employed a number of hands. His shop was east of his house, nearer to the road, and almost on the corner of a street. The old house he bought of Joseph Clesson he tore down, and erected a large, substantial mansion instead of it. His aunt Abigail, widow of John Alvord, (see wife of John Alvord, No. 7,) resided with him in the old house, and a room in the new house was furnished in a superior manner for her.

Tradition says, that Mr. Joseph Alvord was so faithful, kind, and attentive to the comforts of his aunt in her advanced age in life (over 101 years) that it would be an unrighteous act for any one to use him unkindly.

Nathan Clarke of Northampton, has lately purchased this homestead, and has moved the house a few rods in the rear, on a cross street, and has a new building in the course of erection, partly on the same foundation.

As you travel from Hadley towards Northampton Court House, you cross the river of the Connecticut, after which, in about one-half of a mile at your right, on the further corner of the second street on the same road, you come to the beautiful site, once the residence of Joseph Alvord and some of his descendants, soon to be the residence of Nathan Clark, Esq.

Mr. Alvord owned other estates.

I. Benedict Alvord,

Born —; died Windsor, Conn., April 23, 1683. He was of Windsor, Conn., in 1637; was in "Old England" in 1639; was in Massachusetts in August, 1640, (see page 92), and was of Windsor, Conn., in the fall of 1640, where he early had a grant of land, where he was married, where his children were born, and where he died. He was one of the 30 who went from Windsor, Conn., in 1637, to fight against the Pequots.

The Pequots had conceived the design of driving the whites from New England; and at a Court, convened May 1, 1637, "It is ordered that there shall be an offensive war against the Pequots."

"There shall be 90 men levied out of the three plantations, Hartford, Wethersfield and Windsor, in the following proportion Hartford 42 Windsor 30 Wethersfield 18."

"The decisive battle of May 26 had been fought—the Pequot power was broken, the victorious little army was on its homeward march full of joy and gratitude for success such as they had hardly dared to hope."

"A day of special thanksgiving was proclaimed throughout the colonies, and every where the song of exultant victory was blended with prayer and praise to him who ruleth on high. In all these rejoicings, we may well believe that the good people of Windsor had their full share."

"Capt. Mason the 'very foremost of them a' was their townsman. 'So was brave Sergeant Alvord.' So were Barber and Pattison whose valiant right arm caused seven Indians to bite the dust. So were lucky Thomas Stiles and John Dyer, who were singularly fortunate in escaping with their lives, being each of them struck by arrows which stuck in the knots of their neckhandkerchiefs, a twin like coincidence, which is justly commemorated by Capt. Mason in his account of the battle as among the 'wonderful providences' of the day. We have it upon good authority, that in the thickest of the fight an Indian drew 'an arrow to its head' full upon the Captain, whose life was only saved by an opportune thrust of a comrade's sword which cut the bow string, &c." [See History of Windsor.

He married Windsor, Nov. 26, 1640,

Jane Newton.

Her christian name is written Jane and Joan.

She had children:

APPENDIX B—page 32.

CÆSAR AND FLORA BRACKEY.

Flora Brackey, servant of Solomon Burke, was a Guinea negro. She was brought to this country, supposed to Providence, R. I., by Capt. Snell, who was master of the vessel. He considered her to be the "smartest female negro" that he had, and he took her to his own house, but she desired to get away, and Mrs. Snell persuaded her husband to sell her.

He sold her to "Massa Lyon" of Woodstock, Conn. This happened previous to the emancipation of slaves in New England. Her first husband's name was Biberto.

Cæsar Brackey, her second husband, was raised by a minister of the name of Bugbee, of Woodstock, Conn.

Priest Bugbee gave Cæsar Brackey a lot of land in Hartland, Vt., and Cæsar, with his wife Flora, who was a number of years older than himself, moved upon the said land, and there made their home.

They had a number of children, who all died young, and they became disheartened and lonesome, so that they neglected to improve their homestead, and went out to work at different places. Mr. Solomon Burke and his wife manifested sympathy when they came to work for them, and treated them with kindness.

The town authorities of Hartland gave their consent to have Cæsar and Flora Brackey go to Mr. Burke's and make their home with him, and Mr. Burke to have their homestead in Hartland, he giving bonds for their future maintenance.

A small house or tenement was provided by Mr. Burke, near his own house, for Cæsar and Flora as their own.

Cæsar was a short, thick-set man, well proportioned, very active, and at the time of his death would do as much work as any young man. He was a pleasant person, and was universally esteemed.

Mr. Stephen Conant, who kept the tavern in Windsor, Vt., employed Cæsar "to do chores," to build fires, tend ovens, &c. He was troubled with the gravel, and went up into an attic in the tavern and laid down and died.

The father of Stephen Conant went on horseback to inform Mr. Burke of Cæsar's death. Mr. Burke took the remains to Hartland and buried them upon the land which was formerly his own, and there subsequently Flora was buried.

Flora Brackey was a very black negro, but late in life became somewhat lighter colored. She was a very peaceable woman, and was an excellent cook, and capable of doing any kind of woman's work. Mr. Solomon Burke in conveying his property to his son Jonathan Burke, makes provision for himself and wife, and provides for the maintenance "of a negro woman by the name of Flora Brackey." Dr. Nahum Trask of Windsor, Vt., said that, according to the best information he could get, she lived to be one hundred and four years old.

BENJAMIN.

1. I. John Benjamin,

Born about 1598; died in Watertown, June 14, 1645. Immigrant maternal ancestor of Mr. Benjamin Burke, (see page 33, also V. No. 75, page 64,) came to Boston, Mass., in the ship Lion, Sept. 16. 1632, and was made freeman the 6th of November following. May 20, 1633, he was chosen constable of New Town, (Cambridge,) by the General Court. Nov. 7, 1634, he was exempted from training on account of age and infirmity, but was required to have, at all times, arms for himself and servants.

He was of New Town, (Cambridge,) in Oct. 1636, and settled in Watertown about the year 1637. His homestall of sixty acres in Watertown was situated east of Dorchester Field, and bounded south by Charles River. He owned three other large lots. Besides these, it is supposed that he purchased several homestalls in Watertown of those who migrated to Wethersfield. Gov. Winthrop designated him as Mr. Benjamin; the title Mister being rare in those days. His will, dated 12 (4) 1646, is upon record at the Probate Office for Suffolk Co. The following is an abstract of his will:

Goddard. He married

Lydia Allen,

Daughter of William Allen.(?) Mr. Savage says, "William Allen of Boston made his will 15 Dec. 1674, and died soon. In it he gives all his property, in hands of Jonathan Tyng or elsewhere, to Lydia, wife of John Benjamin of Watertown, from which Bond seems to be justly authorized to infer that Lydia was his daughter, but it may be doubted, for on 26 of next month John Benjamin renounces the benefit of the will. She may have been his sister, for the will does not call her daughter, nor can I find any children on Boston records of births; but sister or daughter, probably the value of his goods was small."

Born Watertown, Jan. 28, 1702; died Windsor, Vt., March 8, 1775, aged 73. Son of Abel and Abigail (—) Benjamin, grandson of John and Lydia (Allen) Benjamin, and great-grandson of John Benjamin, the immigrant. He resided in Watertown and Hardwick, Mass., and in Windsor, Vt., where he died and was buried. His grave-stone is somewhat marred. April 5, 1725, Caleb Benjamin of Watertown conveyed land in Southborough, and land in Marlborough, to Joseph Ball, Jr. Benjamin Grover of Hardwick, husbandman, conveys to Caleb Benjamin of Hardwick, husbandman, one tract of land lying and situated in Hardwick, on the easterly side of Ware River, northerly upon the highway.

March 1, 1743, Caleb Benjamin was chosen a surveyor of the highways in Hardwick, and in March 4, 1744-5, was chosen constable, and surveyor of the highways, and in 1746 served as constable.

He married, Aug. 16, 1726,

Abigail Livermore,

Born —; died at Hardwick, June 24, 1756. Dr. Bond says, that she died 1786, aged 87. We find upon the Hardwick Records, that "Abigail wife of Caleb Benjamin died June 24, 1756." AN ADDRESS DELIVERED AT THE FUNERAL OF BENJAMIN
BURKE, ESQ., AT NASHUA, N. H., SEPTEMBER 30, 1855.

BY REV. GEORGE B. JEWETT,

PASTOR OF THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, NASHUA, N. H.

Selections of Scripture.

What man is he that liveth, and shall not see death? shall he deliver his soul from the hand of the grave? Selah.—PSALM 89: 48.

One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth abideth forever.—ECCL. 1: 4.

There is no man that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death; and there is no discharge in that war; neither shall wickedness deliver those that are given to it.—ECCL. 8: 8.

When a few years are come, then I shall go the way whence I shall not return.—JOB 16: 22.

Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was; and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it.—ECCL. 12: 7.

Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believeth thou this?—JOHN 11: 25, 26.

Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.—PSALM 116: 15.

And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them.—REV. 14: 13.

Remarks.

Such are a few, among many passages of inspired truth designed and adapted to impress upon our memories the thought that death is inevitable; that human life is transitory and vain; so that to the servants of God, death, especially if it overtakes us in a good old age when we are ready to be gathered to our fathers in peace, is not only not to be dreaded, but even to be desired. And if these truths were not constantly repeated in the Word of God, the frequent monitions of his providence could not fail to keep them in remembrance. Occasions like the present are of almost daily occurrence. One day it is the little child over whose grave we are called to weep; yet not sorrowing as those who have "no hope." The next day the man of middle life is cut down in all the strength of his manhood and in the midst of his usefulness. And again we are called to stand by the grave of one who died full of years and honors, like a shock of corn fully ripe for the Master's use. In this last case we feel, instinctively, that the transition from earth to heaven is easy, natural, and earnestly to be desired. We feel that it would be wholly unreasonable to wish to detain our aged Christian friend here upon earth; to hold him back from the presence of his Saviour, and from the purity, the fellowship, and the bliss of the heavenly state. As we watch by his bedside, and witness his sufferings, we feel almost tempted, like the poor peasant on the Welsh mountains, every morning to open our casement towards the East and look out to see if the Lord Jesus Christ is not coming to release our friend and his from the bondage under which he here groans. In the death of the aged Christian there is much, very much, to comfort and sustain surviving relatives. You will allow me to say, that I trust the death of him whose remains are now before us was that of a believer in Jesus. My acquaintance with him has been, it is true, a short one, but one which I shall always recall with pleasure and satisfaction.

On entering upon the labors of the ministry, in this place, my eye singled him out, in my congregation, as an attentive and apparently devout hearer of the Word. I noticed the extreme effort it cost him and his aged companion, enfeebled, as they both were, by the infirmities of years, to present themselves in the Sanctuary. They were among the first whom I visited; and one of my last visits, before leaving home on my recent absence, was paid at the bedside of our departed friend. In every interview, which it has been my privilege to have with him, the subject of religion, either in its relations to the individual heart, or to the Church of Christ, or both, has been the principal, and in fact almost the only topic of conversation; and that, too, because this subject was the one of his choice; the one which seemed to be in his estimation the most important; the one on which he loved to dwell. At his request, these interviews were, in every instance, if I mistake not, sanctified by prayer. Very frequently and earnestly did he express to me his desire to see the work of God revived, and the Church of Christ built up. I well remember the joy it gave me, just after I had preached a discourse on the text, "O Lord, revive thy work," to hear him say, that he went directly from the house of God to his own place of secret prayer, and there poured out his soul in supplication for a revival of pure and undefiled religion in this community. Correspondent to this is the testimony of those who have been with him during his last hours. At the lucid intervals he was permitted to enjoy, his thoughts seemed to be much on spiritual themes. His prayers for forgiveness of sin and for acceptance with God through the merits of His Son have left a lasting impression on the memory of those who stood by his bedside even until the angel of death gave him at last a gentle release from the pains of this mortal body. Can we doubt, then, that his prayers were heard, and that, while we are assembled on the evening of this Sabbath, to pay him our last tribute of respect, can we doubt, I say, that his freed spirit is enjoying not merely its first, but its endless Sabbath in heaven? and that, too, "in a city which hath no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it; for the glory of the Lord doth lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof."

Allow me, therefore, to administer to you who mourn the loss of a companion, or a father, the full consolation which these thoughts are calculated to impart. Let me remind you that far beyond the allotted period of human life have you been permitted to enjoy his society. Let me remind you how much occasion you have for gratitude that, during the long period of his physical and mental weakness, you were permitted and enabled to minister to his wants and alleviate his sufferings. Let me assure you, his children, if indeed you need the assurance of a stranger, that all your filial affection and devotion was by him most fully appreciated and most gratefully acknowledged. I know whereof I affirm, when I say that your welfare for time and for eternity lay very near his heart. And let me say to you, my venerable friend, that your separation from him with whom you have spent so many years of your earthly pilgrimage will be short at longest; and that when your fellowship with your beloved companion is renewed, I trust it will be under circumstances more favorable to unalloyed enjoyment than are those of time and sense. I trust it will be where there is no more sickness, nor sorrow, nor sighing, nor sinning, nor separation, nor death; but in a world where those who have known and loved each other on earth will be permitted to dwell together in the purest and sweetest fellowship, unchangeably and forever! And let us all, my friends, learn from these scenes, which are passing before us, a lesson of our own mortality. To my mind, one of the most impressive chapters of Scripture is that which contains the genealogy of the patriarchs from Adam to Noah, of whom it is said in every instance except in the case of Enoch, notwithstanding the number of years which they lived, notwithstanding the sons which they begat, the wealth they accumulated, the works they performed, and the blessings and honors they received; yet of every one of them it is said, with impressive brevity, "and he died!" "The fathers, where are they? and the prophets, do they live forever?" Nay! few at most and evil at best are the days of the years of our earthly pilgrimage. We know—we know it from our own consciousness of frailty; we know it from our daily observation of the course of God's providence; we know it from the evidence which is this moment set before us,—that, when a few years are come, we must, "we shall go the way whence we shall not return." We know, too, on the authority of God's Word, that "after death cometh the judgment." Seeing, then, that our days are determined, and that there is a bound which we cannot pass, how important is it that we so number our days as to apply our hearts unto wisdom; so live, that we can say, "for me to live is Christ, to die is gain;" so live, that "when our earthly house of this tabernacle is dissolved, we shall have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens;" so live, that we shall hear at last a voice from heaven saying unto us, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

ELISHA ALVORD.

Who formerly owned the laud in Northampton on which the Court House now stands, and also the land under the Old Town Hall?

Answer.—Elisha Alvord, son of Joseph and brother of Stephen Alvord. [See Alvord No. 95.]

The town has built a new Town Hall on another site.

What can the land or buildings thereupon be used for?

Sept. 23, 1767. A warrant was issued for a town meeting, to be held Sept. 28, 1767, at 9 A. M., then and there to determine whether the town will grant any sum of money towards purchasing Elisha Alvord's house lot for the town's use, and particularly for the purpose of setting the New Court House on, which is soon to be set up.

After considerable debate and conversation about the clause in the warrant. The question was put, whether the town would grant any sum of money towards purchasing Elisha Alvord's house lot, with a view of setting the New Court House, soon to be erected, on a part of the same, and it passed in the negative. [Abstract. Joseph Hawley, Moderator.

At a town meeting held Northampton, Sept. 3, 1852, The question of the removal of the Old Town Hall being brought before the town and freely discussed by several gentlemen, Dr. Allen presented the following vote:

“Voted, That the Town will remove the Old Town Hall, and give the land under it to the Inhabitants of the County of Hampshire, to be used forever for the purposes mentioned in the deed of the Alvord lot, dated A. D. 1767.” The above vote was rejected by five yeas and eighty nays.

The following preamble and votes were then submitted to the town and passed by a large majority:

Whereas, a petition is pending before the County Commissioners, requesting some action in reference to the revocation of a license to erect a Town Hall on the Alvord lot, so called, and a removal of the building; and whereas, there is a difference of opinion as to the rights of the Town in the premises, and as to the location of the Alvord lot, and whether said building is upon it—

“Voted, That the Town, not conceding any rights or title already gained, and not admitting the building to be in any part upon said Alvord lot, hereby declare, that the lapse of time hereafter shall not operate to give the Town further title than is already acquired, or to deprive any party adversely interested of title to the same, provided the County or County Commissioners take no measures to deprive the Town of possession or to eject them.”

It would improve the appearance of the village of Northampton if the Old Town Hall was moved off of the Alvord lot, and the land, under and around it, was used for a Green.
