FRANCIS BROWN was also one of the New Haven Company, and was probably a brother of Peter Brown. Francis Brown* signed the compact appertaining to the government of the New Haven Colony in 1639. After the death of his wife, Lydia, he removed to Stamford, Connecticut, was there in 1657, and constable in 1663.† He married again at Stamford, Oct. 17, 1657, Martha, widow of John Chapman, by whom he had one child, Joseph, to whom he gave land in 1683. By his first wife he probably had Eleazer and John, and perhaps others. His son, Joseph, removed to Rye, New York, and after the third marriage of his father, returned to Stamford and had a large family.

FRANCIS BROWN after the death of his second wife removed to Rye, about 1683, and married for his third wife, Judith, dau. of John Budd, and widow of John Ogden. He bought land in Rye in 1686, and died there in 1687, leaving no children by his third wife.

¹FRANCIS BROWN, born in England about 1607, settled in New Haven in 1638, removed to Stamford, Connecticut, about 1656, died in Rye, N. Y., in 1687, m. 1st, Lydia, b. in England about 1609, d. at New Haven about 1655, m. 2d, at Stamford, Oct. 17, 1657, Martha, widow of John Chapman, d. about 1680, m. 3d, at Rye, Judith, dau. of John Budd, and widow of John Ogden.

Children by his first wife were (perhaps others):
